Inflation protection when you need it most

Inflation erodes the purchasing power of money, can weigh on the performance of bond portfolios, and generates headwinds for equity valuations. With inflation on the rise, there couldn't be a more relevant time for a fund specifically designed to protect your clients' purchasing power. With a track record of over 17 years managing through inflationary periods, Dynamic Diversified Inflation Focused Fund is a diversified, strategically managed solution comprised of multiple asset classes and strategies that are correlated to inflation. When added to a portfolio, the Fund can help preserve real purchasing power over the long term.

Key benefits

Strong diversification and enhanced risk management

The Fund features a broad range of inflation-protected assets to help generate a reliable return stream with lower volatility – and lower risk.

A history of inflation-fighting performance

The Fund has a track record of over 17 years of delivering risk-adjusted returns during inflationary periods and positive performance during periods of rising global economic growth.

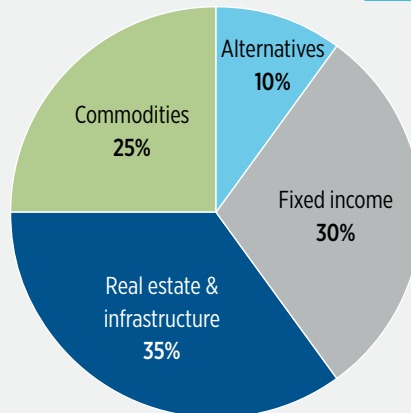

A core long-term holding

Designed to protect against inflation, the Fund is an essential holding in preserving long-term wealth and may complement existing holdings to help improve a portfolio's risk/return profile.

Strategic allocation by asset class

Natural resources
Natural resources, such as energy and precious metals, tend to provide a hedge against inflation as demand typically remains strong during inflationary periods.

Physical commodities
Physical commodities, like gold, silver and other precious metals, have historically provided a strong hedge against inflation.

Alternatives
By providing an absolute return stream, alternative assets can add an important layer of resilience to a portfolio's performance through various economic and financial market scenarios.

Fixed income
The fixed-income allocation features a precise blend of real return bonds, which provide a steady stream of inflation-adjusted income, and select corporate bonds, which are designed to raise the income profile of the Fund. Additionally, exposure to the Fund helps provide protection against the negative effect of rising interest rates.

Real estate & infrastructure
The real estate and infrastructure sectors have a long history of generating stable yet appreciating income and capital growth – even during inflationary periods.
